A Terrific Storm Creates Damage in Kansas and Missouri Cities.

A NUMBER OF CHILDREN KILLED IN LEAVENWORTH, KAS.

Castle Garden Closed to All Steamship Companies Not Paying Fifty Cents a Head for All Emigrants Landed.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CHICAGO, June 17.—The following is from the Tribune: Now comes Gen. Stager again, and he is just as explicit as before in his denial. According to a telegram in yesterday's Tribune, Rosecrans had been wrongly reported Wednesday. He did not say that Stager told him Garfield had denounced him (Rosecrans), but Stager had told Gen. Darr so at West Point a year ago, and that Gen. Darr had written him (Rosecrans) about the conversation. "I never made any such statement," said Gen. Stager to a Tribune reporter yesterday, "to Gen. Darr or anybody else. It wasn't a fact. Gen. Garfield did not denounce his superior officer and I could not therefore have said he did. I met Gen. Darr at West Point, but if he says I made such a statement he misapprehended me. Local papers are very severe in their comments on Rosecrans.

One remarks Rosecrans should have confined his programme to telling what dead men had said, and, when he begins to quote a live man (Stager) he is confronted at once by denials that prove his (Rosecrans) short memory.

Another says the general has done little for his own reputation by reviving memories of Chickamauga and the farther he carries the controversy the less advantage it is to him. General Stager's denial is not invalidated by General Rosecrans' amended statement that Stager's story was not told to him, but to another man who wrote to him for denial of the allegation of his having made a statement to any one. The truth is that General Rosecrans is naturally sensitive over his military reputation and perhaps a little deficient in memory and is liable to get confused as to who told him. The pretense that this controversy is maintained in the interest of historical accuracy is discredited by the fact that aside from General Rosecrans himself, the parties who are most interested in keeping it up are republicans of that particular variety who have never recovered from the disappointment they suffered in the nomination of General Garfield at Chicago. Whatever has been said regarding the indiscretion of Garfield's letter to Chase, or lack of ingenuousness in his letter to General Rosecrans, two and a half years ago, is not entitled to much weight, unless it takes into account the fact that in 1863 General Garfield was a very young man without any military training and therefore without the same idea of the relation of superior to inferior officers that men bred to arms might have been expected to have, but had met with exceptional success in civil life, and was therefore the more likely to overlook differences in station, and to regard his own opinions as quite as good as those of any one else. The difference between being the member of a general's staff and of being a member of a college faculty, or state senate may not have been very apparent to him.

Union Men Left Out.

CLEVELAND, June 17.—More men have gone to work at the Cleveland rolling mills than at any time since the lock out began, there being between 1200 and 1300 in all. President Chisholm says he has all the men he can employ at present, and in two or three departments applications are refused because all places are filled. He expects no difficulty in procuring all the non-union men the company needs, and says other departments will be started as soon as ready. About fifteen out of the works are now in operation and the remainder closed for repairs, alterations or lack of contracts. Mr. Chisholm says the quality is as good as ever turned out at the mills. No disturbance was reported to-day, and the police and military are on duty as usual. Strikers in the rolling mills yesterday formed in two distinct divisions, the union men and the outsiders. The latter have been fed by the union men as compensation for striking, and have made all the disturbance. The amalgamated association, therefore, have decided to cut off their supplies, and this will have the effect of leaving many more strikers free to work.

Terrific Wind Storm in Kansas.

LEAVENWORTH, Ks., June 17.—A terrible wind storm prevailed between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning and Mount St. Mary's academy four miles south of the city suffered terribly. The main tower was blown over on the dormitory, crushing in the roof, and Ida Golden, Annie McDonald and Mabel McLachlin of this city, and Mary Austin of Carrollton Mo., aged from 11 to 13 years were instantly killed and three other children injured. The Kansas central elevator was blown down; loss $50,000. Loss in city and country about $300,000. Wheat was not seriously injured. Fruit was half stripped from the trees but will still be a good crop. An unknown man was blown into the river and drowned. Barns and houses were blown down and unroofed all over the city and trees uprooted and general devastation wrought.

VALLEY FALLS, Ks., June 17.—A severe wind storm passed over this section about 12 o'clock last night. E. D. Hillyer was struck by lightning and seriously injured. A large part of the roof of a livery stable was blown away and another building moved from its foundation. In the country a number of houses and barns were blown down. No one was hurt. Damage done orchards and other fruit crops is very great, and hundreds of trees are broken down. Field crops are not much hurt.

A Severe Storm.

ST. LOUIS, June 17.—The severest storm that has visited this region for a very long time passed over the city between 10 and 1 o'clock this morning. The wind attained a velocity of 66 miles an hour and did very great aggregate damage, but so far as known no single injury of magnitude occurred. Trees and fences were prostrated in all sections of the city, shutters, signs, awnings, etc., were blown down and general havoc among small things prevailed. Very heavy rain accompanied the wind, and streets, sewers and cellars in many parts of the city were flooded. Several steamers at the wharf lost chimneys or had some part of their upper works carried away, and barges and small craft were banged about a good deal. Every telegraph line in the city was prostrated and at this writing communication is restored to only a very few points. A good deal of plate glass was broken in the business part of the city and a great many windows broken.

Heavy Hail Storm.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, June 17.—A remarkable hail storm occurred here this afternoon. Hail stones fell some 3 to 4 inches in diameter. A majority were as large as oranges. An immense amount of glass was broken and several persons seriously injured.

A Traitor in Camp.

CHICAGO, June 17.—At yesterday's meeting the managers were pledged to secrecy in order that an effort might be made to get in outstanding limited tickets before the advance was known. The publication this morning naturally caused distrust and ill-feeling among them. Mr. Potter, general manager of the Burlington road, wrote a letter to Mr. Gault, of the Wabash, calling attention to the breach of secrecy and declaring the Burlington company would not be bound by the agreement, but a subsequent interview justifies the belief that the letter will be withdrawn. Ticket brokers intimate that the outstanding unlimited tickets issued amount to from $400,000 to $500,000. It is claimed the bulk of the tickets are held in Chicago by bankers and merchants, as well as scalpers. They cost: Chicago to St. Louis, first class, $5; second class, $3 50; Chicago to Kansas City, first class, $8 50. Several brokers who borrowed largely to purchase have since defaulted and surrendered their property.

A Swindler's Whereabouts.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The police authorities of Long Island City have discovered the whereabouts of Water Commissioner McBride, who absconded from the city a few months ago, leaving debts behind him amounting to over $40,000. He is in San Francisco, and correspondence is in progress between the chief of police of that city and Police Commissioner Williams of Long Island City as to what shall be done concerning the fugitive. The creditors of McBride, however, do not seem inclined to prosecute him criminally, and it is not considered probable he will be interfered with.

The Trials of a Prize Fighter.

PITTSBURG, June 17.—The authorities of Columbiana county, Ohio, are hunting up Weedin and Maloney on account of Thursday's prize fight. Weedin left this city for Philadelphia yesterday and Maloney is hiding in some place. It is probable the Campbell-Willing fight which was to come off on the 20th will be interfered with. The principals will be notified they cannot remain in training in Allegheny county. What they will do about it is another question.

A Modest Request.

NEW YORK, June 17.—All employes of different post-offices in the city received a circular from a member of the executive committee of the republican party announcing the fact that a check received from each employe and for $10 would be welcome, and be used solely for the purpose of stamping out the democratic party.

Decisive Action.

NEW YORK, June 17.—At a meeting of emigration commissioners to-day it was decided to close Castle Garden at once to all steamship lines refusing to pay 50 cents for each emigrant landed. Only two companies, the Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantique and North German and Lloyds, have agreed to pay the tax. The garden is practically suspended.

CHICAGO, June 17.—A special says, Dr. Jules Crevaux and a party of seventeen men engaged in exploring the northern tributaries of the river Plata were killed recently by Obah Indians in Bolivia.

BALTIMORE, June 17.—Andrew Pfautch sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Jacob Lochour, killed himself to-day.

Five water wheels furnish the power whereby Pendleton is irrigated.

Considerable stone and timber land is being taken up in Umatilla county.

[illegible] county will sell 750,000 pounds of wool this year. This should bring something like $100,000, which is not a very bad showing for an industry that is yet in its infancy.

Some fall sown grain in Umatilla county was killed by the severe winter and had to be sown over again last March. It looks very well, much better than the fall grain sown which was not killed by winter. Spring grain is looking very well all over the county, and the crop is expected to be enormous.

Grant county News: The numerous bands of cattle, sheep and horses that have passed up the John Day valley this spring, on their way east, have destroyed nearly all the grass along their line of travel. Stock will have to range well back in the mountains in order to get feed. People who keep milk cows will be annoyed not a little on this account. Forty thousand more sheep are coming this way.

Machinery for the manufacture of yarn and socks is on the way to Eugene City, where a factory for that purpose is to be started by Wm. Skelton, an experienced wool spinner.

Mrs. Ellen Sanner, who met with an accident at Coburg last week which necessitated the amputation of an arm never rallied from the shock occasioned by the amputation and died therefrom.

The assessment of Eugene City has been completed, showing property to the value of $677,560. Last year the assessment was about $510,000. A tax levy of 8½ mills for city, and 1½ for fire purposes, has been made.

Mrs Mary Kees, who was one of the first settlers on the Santiam, died in San Francisco on the 2d inst. She had gone to that city a few days before with a nephew and niece, on a pleasure trip, and died after a single day's illness. She crossed the plains in 1845. The remains were returned to her old home and buried in the Lebanon cemetery on the 8th inst.

The following persons graduated from the state university last week: Geo. M. Hoyt, Arthur L. Frazer, Chester F. Miller, George Noland, Eva Rogers, Maggie E. Sergent, Edward Bailey, S. W. Condon, Alice Dorris, Ida Dunn, Mary E. McCormick and Robbie P. Spiller. The first six named received the degree of A. B. and the remaining members of the class that of B. S.

Mr. Beeler, living near Amity, has been troubled for some time with a pain in one of his eyes, which caused him to lose his sight in that eye, after which the pain became so severe that it was necessary to have the eye removed. Dr. Sanders was called upon to perform the operation. Four minutes after the ether took effect the eye was removed. Mr. Beeler is getting along exceedingly well.

The grave of Howlish Wampo, the great Umatilla chief, has been disturbed. The medal presented to him by the "great father" at Washington was found near the grave minus the chain to which it was attached.

The LaConner Mail estimates the damage to the farmers of the submerged district at $100,000. The cultivated lands covered with water amounted to 2500 acres. The crop damage it places at $30 per acre, or $75,000 in the aggregate, while the damage to dykes, fences, logging camps, stock, etc., will amount to $25,000 or more.

Hops in the Puyallup valley are getting to the tops of the poles, and there is every prospect of a large crop. A representative of the large hop dealing firm of Philip Wolf & Co., of San Francisco, has been in the valley the last week or two, buying hops. He is paying about 15 cents per pound, and has secured between 40,000 and 50,000 pounds.

Tacoma Ledger: Hatch & Co.'s sawmill quit work on last Tuesday for the purpose of introducing the new 100-horse power engine, just built by D. Lister & Co., which has been delivered and is being put in place. They expect to set the mill in motion again ten days hence, and thereafter to turn out 40,000 feet of lumber per day, which will be more than double their production in the past.

Mrs. Cain died of small-pox at New Tacoma on Friday of last week and was buried the same day. The other members of the family were promptly moved out of town by order of the health officer and placed in comfortable quarters in our quarantine, to wait the usual time for the disease to show itself if contracted by any of them. Up to date they have not shown any indications of contagion.

Olympia Transcript: Two logs in front of the Ellis' camp last week are the largest from this part of the sound. One of them was 80 feet long, 52 inches in diameter at the smallest end, straight and clear, without limb, knot or kink. The stick measured 15,305 feet, Bangor scale, and took thirty oxen to skid it over to the railroad. The second log was a little longer, but a little smaller in size and not quite as good a stick. It contained about the same number of feet. The camp has an order for five of these logs from Port Blakely mill.

Post Intelligencer: Richard Goldsworthy, for some time past engaged in packing for the Oregon Improvement company, assisted the man who died with the smallpox on Cedar river, some three weeks ago, after he was taken sick, and helped to bury him after he was dead. Goldsworthy was taken down with the disease at I. Steven's place, on Cedar river, nine miles from Renton, recently. Dr. Bagley was at once sent for, and securing a nurse who had had the disease, immediately started to the relief of the afflicted man. Before his return the doctor will go to all the Green river camps on a tour of inspection, vaccinating those who need it, and looking generally after the health of the men in that section.

A correspondent of the Cheney Tribune writing from Cottonwood says: The large mole cricket is playing havoc with grain and gardens in some localities. They hatch by millions in the rim rocks near the Spokane and Columbia rivers and immediately commence their march of destruction, taking a southerly course, they leave the fields and gardens along their path utterly denuded of every kind of vegetation. Whether they are periodical, like the seventeen year locusts, or likely to prove a perpetual pest seems to be an undecided question. They are perhaps the largest specimen of all our insect pests, and so numerous that a horse's hoof will crush dozens of them at a single step. Many farmers in Egypt (from Lorene to Camp Spokane) are ditching a defence against them. Mr. Heath, a few miles north of Mondovia, has lost 35 acres of grain by them, and other farmers in the same vicinity have suffered severely. A farmer from the Big Bend, some 20 miles west of Cottonwood, states that both grasshoppers and crickets are raiding the crops of that section.

STRIKES.

[illegible] Strike.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The strike of the freight handlers inaugurated last Monday assumed large proportions to-day. The strikers assembled at St. John's park depot and resolved to take steps towards having freight handlers of other railroad companies join them. They went in a body and persuaded men employed by the Baltimore & Ohio road at pier No. 30, North river, to leave off work. They then visited the Star Union line, where the men also promised to quit work and join the strikers. The latter started down town to visit other places, but were dispersed by police. Later they visited several other piers, and were successful in inducing men to give up work. In many instances strikers demand an increase from 17 to 20 cents per hour.

All Quiet at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., June 16.—All is quiet at the rolling mills. A few stones were thrown at the train conveying non-union workmen, but nobody was hurt. A large force of police is on duty and military are on guard in the armory.

A Heavy Loss.

CLEVELAND, June 16.—To-morrow is pay day. Only $10,000 will be paid out, a net loss for the month of $100,000 to strikers.

Strikers Want to Resume Work.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 16.—It is reported at the iron association rooms that strikers sent committees to two mills offering to resume work at the old wages. In mining matters little is new. Twelve out of twenty mines on the Panhandle are being operated with colored non-union men.

Mr. Thomas J. Russell, one of the best known cabinet-makers and undertakers in Wilmington, Del., says he contracted an exceedingly severe attack of rheumatism this winter. He is subject to the disease, but rarely ever felt it so severely as he did the time now under consideration. The disease located itself in his right leg and foot, rendering that member so stiff and sore that he could not move without enduring excruciating pain. St. Jacobs Oil had been so highly recommended that he concluded to try it. He has every cause to be glad that he did so. Two applications of the wonderful remedy gave him entire relief, and he has not been troubled with rheumatism since. Mr. Russell says he considers St. Jacobs Oil a very fine remedy for rheumatism and now keeps it by him for ready use.

THE GREAT WORK DEVOLVING ON THE PUBLIC PRINTER.

A Fishy Story from Boston Concerning an Attempt to Assassinate the President, and Reed, Counsel for Guiteau.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—Mr. Rounds, government printer, left for Chicago to-day, to be absent about a week. Mr. Rounds has already been successful in two important particulars: He has secured his appropriations from the senate without objection, and has obtained competent and experienced assistants for the subordinate places in that great office. The extent of the work of the public printer may be better understood when the cost of government printing is considered. The annexed figures cover the period embraced between July 1, 1862, and June 30, 1880: Office expenses, $256,351; public printing, proper, $10,708,854; paper, $8,320,061; lithographing and engraving, $1,101,523; public binding, $7,633,076; mapping and engraving, United States supreme court, $21,276; Congressional Record, 1875 to 1880, $758,753; agricultural reports, two years, $6,946; Belknap impeachment, $5,628; for fire escape, etc., and telephone, $4,660; total, $29,951,274. These figures do not include construction and repairs of buildings, nor does it embrace what preceded its earlier date. The appropriation for two years past will add about $6,000,000 to the sum total. There is certainly some need of better management at a point beyond control of the public printer. It is quite possible to introduce legitimate economies into the printery, and it is quite certain that under the management of Mr. Rounds this will be done. It has been suggested that possibly one-third, most certainly one-fifth, might have been saved by a careful editing and pruning of the various reports and special papers. The employment of competent editors at a cost of not over $10,000 a year would have reduced the cost by at least $10,000,000, and made the public reports far more reliable and useful. How much more might have been saved in other ways by less wasteful management cannot be determined upon.

Passage of the River and Harbor Bill.

After a continuous session of eight hours the house to-night passed the river and harbor bill by a vote of 110 to 111. But little change has been made in the bill as reported by committee, and only one amendment involving a change in the amount of the appropriation was agreed to, this being an item of $250,000 for improvement of Great Kanawha river, in West Virginia. The discussion of various items in the bill was quite interesting to-day. It opened with an hour's debate on a constitutional point involved in the appropriation and condemnation of lands needed for establishment of reservoirs at the headwaters of the Mississippi river. As reported from the committee the bill provided that proceedings to this end should be conducted under the direction of the judges of federal courts in districts in which lands were situated. The constitutional lawyers of the house having their opinions on the subject, the bill was finally amended in deference to views of states rights men so as to provide that before any condemnation of lands could be made for this purpose the state in which they are situated should cede to the United States its right to these lands. Other amendments were made to this section of the bill providing that after cession by the state the lands appropriated should be appraised by a board of three commissioners appointed by the judge of the district court in the district in which they are situated, and if this appraisement shall be found unsatisfactory by either party, recourse is to be had to a jury, whose judgment shall be final. The appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi, as had been expected, provoked a great deal of discussion, which turned upon the question as to whether or not the work of improvement should proceed according to the plan of the Mississippi river commission, which means the levee system. An attempt was made to have the bill amended to leave the expenditure of five millions appropriated to be made according to the judgment and discretion of the secretary of war, friends of this plan claiming the levee system was meant not so much for improvement of navigation of the river, as for reclamation of the overflowed lands along the river. All attempts to amend the bill in this particular failed, as did the proposition to reserve $250,000 of the whole sum for experimenting on the Cowden outlet system. Representative Berry made an ineffectual effort to increase the appropriation for improvement and protection of navigation of the channels of Sacramento and Feather rivers from $250,000 to $500,000. Holman, of Indiana, moved to reduce the appropriation to $100,000, on the ground that the engineer's report only asked $100,000, and because he was opposed to appropriating money to improve California rivers by keeping California people from filling them up by hydraulic mining. Chairman Page opposed Holman's amendment. He said the engineer had made a supplemental report, asking for $410,000 for improvement and protection of these rivers, and called attention to the fact that from the process of hydraulic mining carried on in the mountains during the past 30 years channels of these rivers have been gradually filling up. The California state legislature had appropriated half a million dollars to protect these rivers, but the supreme court had declared the act unconstitutional. He had read from the clerk's desk a telegram from the San Francisco board of trade in which the delegation was requested to urge upon congress the great importance to the agricultural and commercial interests of appropriating immediately a sum sufficient to protect the channels of rivers. Representative Berry, in support of his amendment, said there had been a conflict going on for years between the agricultural and commercial and mining interests of the state. Agriculturists seek to enjoin the process of hydraulic mining, and in his opinion the only solution of the difficulty was in some such measure as present for protection of the rivers. The channels of the rivers had during the past thirty years been filled to an average of fifteen feet, and even should the hydraulic process be suppressed, some remedy would still be needed against accumulation of earth which was being washed down into the rivers with every flood, and which now amounted to seventy million cubic yards. Eighteen million cubic yards per annum were washed down. If something were not done the upper bay of San Francisco would be soon destroyed. He quoted extracts from opinions of prominent engineers to show that if this process of hydraulic mining were to be allowed to go on there would soon be nothing left of rivers but a channel to drain the watersheds. After a few words in addition by Mr. Page, in which he heartily endorsed Berry's statements, though as chairman of the committee opposing the proposition to increase the bill the amendments were voted down and the item appropriating $250,000 passed. As chairman of the commerce committee in charge of the bill, Page has had a difficult task and has displayed considerable ability in securing speedy passage of this bill, although larger by $8,000,000 than any previous one. The time occupied in its passage was only three days, including one day for debates, and this is unprecedented.

The New Pension Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Scores of letters are being received daily by members of the senate pension committee in relation to the bill that recently passed the house increasing the rate of pensions of soldiers and sailors who lost an arm or a leg in the service to $40 per month. The committee has the bill under consideration, but may not conclude to act on it during the present session of congress. Mr. Dudley, the commissioner of pensions, explaining the scope and effect of the proposed law, says: It was asserted in the brief debate that preceded passage of the bill, that its cost would be only in the neighborhood of $16,000,000 per annum. Commissioner Dudley says that the increase would add $2,247,444 annually to the amputation roll, and $3,542,960 to the equivalent disabilities roll, making a total of $5,790,404. He estimated two years would be required to settle all claims, and recommends that if the bill should pass, a proviso should be inserted that claims pending before the bureau should have precedence in adjudication to those proposed on the bill.

The New Commissioners.

The president to-day completed the list of members of the tariff commission, nominated the Utah commission and appointed a board of government directors of the Union Pacific railroad. Mr. Hayes, of Boston, is made chairman of the tariff commission, and the two men chosen to fill the places of Messrs. Wheeler and Phelps are Alexander R. Boteler, of West Virginia, and William H. McMahon, of New Jersey. The former is a broken down politician and the latter is a clerk in the New York custom house. Mr. Boteler was born in Shepherdstown, Jefferson county, West Virginia, May 16, 1815. He graduated from Princeton college in 1835, and since that time has been a farmer and politician. He was an old line whig, and in 1852 and 1856 was on the whig and American electoral ticket. He strove assiduously for many years to defeat Henry Bedinger and Chas. J. Faulkner for congress, and in 1859 he was at last elected representative from Virginia to the 36th congress. When the war came he joined the secessionists and served in the confederate congress. In 1876 he was appointed commissioner to the centennial exhibition. Boteler is said to have been a rich man before the war but he is now in moderate circumstances and lives on a small farm in Jefferson county. He may possibly be regarded as a representative of the agricultural interest on the commission. Boteler was recommended by Senators Davis and Camden of West Virginia, and it is expected their votes will be cast for confirmation of the commission, thus assuring success of the nominations. Very little is known here about McMahon. He has been a clerk in the New York custom house for many years, and Senator Lapham says he is in charge of the customs division and is an expert on matters of tariff. The gentleman served under General Arthur, and the president probably has some knowledge of his fitness for the place. The president had great difficulty in filling Mr. Wheeler's place. The position was declined by Mr. A. A. Lowe, ex-Secretary Hugh McCulloch, Erastus Corning, John S. Agnew and [illegible].

Of the members of the Utah commission, ex-Senators Ramsey and Paddock lost the prospect of re-entering public life in their respective states, and they are well provided for. The salary of the commissioners is $5000 each, and the job will last until Utah is admitted as a state. Godfrey, the third republican member of the commission, is said to be a well informed lawyer and competent man. Carlton and Pettigrew are democratic members of the commission. The former is a Terre Haute lawyer who was formerly a partner of Daniel Voorhees, and the latter is at present journal clerk of the senate. Pettigrew was backed for the place by Senators Walker and Garland. He is by profession a lawyer, and has served his term as a country newspaper editor. Ex-Senator Spencer, of Alabama, now of Dakota, is provided for as a government director of the Union Pacific railroad. I. Bromley, formerly of the Tribune, also has a place in the directory. Neither Robert H. Baker, of Wisconsin, George G. Haven, of New York, nor Watson Parish, of Nebraska, have ever been in congress.

Americans all Safe.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Herald's Alexandria special: The whole of the American mission is now safe on board the Galena. Dr. Lansing and Messrs. Hogg, Watson, Ewing, Nichol, Harvey, Alexander and Griffin and their families, with Messrs. Thompson, Frazer, Strong, Newton and Conner are now placed under protection of American guns. Col. Long has to-day taken charge of the American consulate, replacing Mr. Menache, and leaving his private affairs. Cattowi, a rich Egyptian banker who was received on board the Galena, requests me to forward his heartfelt thanks to the American government in the name of all unprotected persons who have found American protection, desiring to express their lasting gratitude for the courtesy, help and protection afforded by the American ship Galena, and praying that God will watch over the great nation which alone affords protection without distinction of race or creed. The Galena has been able to do work which ships of other nationalities were prevented from doing.

A Fishy Story.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—A special under date of Boston, June 15, to an evening paper here says: A plot to assassinate President Arthur and Chas. H. Reed has been formed in Boston. The members are men and women who believe Arthur hired Guiteau to murder Garfield, and has hired Reed to defend him (Guiteau). I care nothing for Reed but don't want Arthur murdered. Make this public, for heaven's sake, and avert ruin to the government. Do not think this a crank's communication, for it is not; but pay heed to it. The plan is to be put into execution the 2d of July, 1882, unless Guiteau is hanged the previous Friday. Make this public. It won't take much room.

Washington Notes.

The senate and house committees on public buildings decided report adversely on proposition to buy the house in which President Lincoln died.

Senate committee on postoffices and post routes has decided to report favorably the bill recently introduced by Hill of Colorado, which proposes to amend the revised statutes so that hereafter bidders for mail routes shall not be required to furnish checks or drafts with their bids or proposals.

Senate committee on territories decided to report favorably the bill introduced by Harrison providing for the reapportionment of members of the legislative assembly of Montana.

The Interior department wants $145,000 to complete the work of the tenth census.

The passage of the bill for payment of Garfield's sickness and funeral expenses has been delayed for several weeks in the hope that Congressman Blackburn of Kentucky would leave the city, so that the bill might be approved without discussion or delay. Mr. Blackburn has made a report against allowing certain expenses incurred for liquors and cigars on the funeral trip, and he has in his possession facts showing how much money was spent for whisky, cocktails, brandy, wine, etc., which he proposed to lay before the house whenever the report of the auditing committee was called up. Blackburn will be absent next week, but he informed your correspondent to-day he would make an agreement with Judge Taylor that the report should not be called up in his absence.

The Naval Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The draft of the naval appropriation bill which is printed proposes, it is said, to appropriate $1,000,000 for completing four monitors on the stocks along the Delaware river and $215,000 for finishing the monitor Monadnock at Mare Island navy yard, California, and $190,000 for purchase of breech-loading steel guns. The aggregate amount which the bill appropriates is a little more than $15,000,000. It is further said draft of bill contains some proposed legislation on the subject of reorganizing the navy and provides among other things for abolishing the rank of commodore.

ACCIDENTS.

A Burnt Building.

BOSTON, June 17.—This morning Timothy Remeck's cotton waste mill at Boston Highlands took fire. The building contained much cotton waste, which, being thoroughly soaked by water from the engines, became so heavy as to burst the walls, which fell upon several firemen, who were badly injured. Thos. Killahan, it is feared, is fatally hurt. At Boston highlands 19 firemen were buried beneath falling debris. A third alarm was sent out, bringing a large additional force to the spot, and in a short time they were rescued. All had suffered to a greater or less extent, nine being seriously injured. Two fire captains are believed to be fatally injured.

Accidentally Shot.

CLEVELAND, June 17.—As Barron Kyle was driving through the village of Olmsted Falls yesterday, when passing across a rifle range forty yards beyond the target at which some young men were shooting, he was struck by a stray bullet which lodged near the heart, inflicting a probably fatal wound.

Railroad Accident.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 17.—The switch at Kingston was left open this morning and the passenger train from Chattanooga on the Western & Atlanta Railroad, running 40 miles an hour, ran on the siding into some freight cars, killing Andy West, engineer, and Geo. Bass, fireman.

Mining Accident.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 17.—Two explosions of gas occurred in the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre mine this morning and eight miners were badly burned. The mine is on fire.

STATE UNIVERSITY COMMENCEMENT.

Commencement proper began at 10 A. M. Thursday, June 15th, with an anthem by the choir and prayer by Rev. I. D. Driver. Geo. M. Hoyt delivered an oration, "The Republican Idea in History," and the Latin salutatory, the first in the annals of the university. It was well rendered, the delivery showing him to be a master of the classics. The oration was a complete exposition of the theme. The following points were set forth: "A new era is dawning upon us: human society is progressing; the path of the world leads through the fields of universal equality to the ultimate goal of universal liberty; civilization is the precursor of republicanism." In reference to our own republic, the speaker gave a bright picture of free speech and free thought, and his closing remarks were, "The march of humanity will go under the banner on which is inscribed in living letters the motto of the future, 'Vox populi vox Dei.'"

Edward Bailey delivered an oration upon "Ideality." He said: "Ideality is a lively imagination united to a love of the beautiful, forming one of the chief constituents of creative genius in man. It illumines the remotest star and the first born of the morning." * * * "Every law governing matter may be comprehended under this name." The oration was short but full of points, energetic argument.

"Cleansing Fires," an essay by Miss Alice Dorris, was rendered in a very happy manner. "Gold," she said, "is mixed with dross and must be cast into the furnace that the pure metal may be separated from the dross and be made all the more precious for its fiery cleansing." She then applied this figure to the cleansing and refining effects of adversity on human character. She illustrated that there must be either progression or retrogression in man's physical and mental capacities; it is hard to understand that afflictions are blessings in disguise; we look for high moral character in one who has been tried and found noble; the truest manifestations of character spring almost entirely from the soul of sorrow; time also is a mighty refiner; but the purest and the most purifying in its effects on mankind is Christianity. To the Christian is imparted that beautiful resignation by which he can bear all the misfortunes of life.

Seymour W. Condon's oration, "True National Life," was a good delineation of national character. Condon has a rich voice and fine delivery. He said, "Thought refuses to be stationary; the history of civilization has been one of ceaseless conflict; the progress of civil life has been in the development of truth and justice; nations have achieved revolutions only as they have been in sympathy with the spirit of the age; throughout the successive changes there seems a tendency toward a centralization of effort; the essence of republicanism is the embodiment of the popular will; but only as public measures become assimilated to the demands of the masses do they gain a foothold as national policy and, as such, crystalize into history."

One of the best efforts of the class was the oration "Influence of Social Opinion"—by Miss Ida Dunn. She said: "There are attractive [illegible] forces in the members of our race which are inherent; there is something that prompts every man to seek a social state; social life springs from what was first a spirit of the individual, afterwards it merged into an institution; between these two stages of its existence there is a [illegible]; social opinion [illegible] and never marks a square [illegible] till the time for doing so has passed; social opinion has become a power, a force and at times a most subtle disturber in the affairs of men; social opinion is one of the greatest retarding forces; intemperance has met its [illegible], and its softened [illegible]"

"The Scientific Frontier," an oration by Mr. A. L. Frazer, closed the exercises. Mr. Frazer has been one of the best students and one of the closest thinkers among the students of [illegible] years and his oration was characteristic of his habits. He said: "The frontier of science, like the frontier of a nation, is its line of discovery and advance; its boundary and defense; its dimensions now embrace almost the entire material universe. The first great obstacle arose in the belief that everything was endowed with supernatural power and hence became an object of worship." The speaker closed as follows: "And now science, like the truth on which it is founded, will endure and be always strong; and will live and conquer forevermore."

"Buchupaiba." Quick, complete cure, all annoying Kidney and Urinary Diseases. $1.

Parliamentary Proceedings.

LONDON, June 17.—Commons has adopted clauses 7 and 8 of the repression bill. Government accepted the amendment that magistrates should appear at meetings and summon people to disperse. Gladstone declined to introduce the bill suspending evictions for six months.

A Considerable Capture.

LONDON, June 17.—The police made a raid on a stable in Clerkenwell, London, and seized 100,000 rounds of ammunition packed in boxes ready for shipment to Ireland. Four hundred rifles with bayonets and 25 boxes of revolvers were also captured.

Disposition of the Military.

DUBLIN, June 17.—Freemans' Journal publishes a document purporting to be a circular from the commander of Dublin district giving military dispositions to be observed in event of any disturbance in the city. The document states the whole garrison is held in readiness to turn out under arms. Artillery is to be furnished with full complement of ammunition and a tabulated form of points to be occupied and used as field hospitals is appended. The Journal says the circular is marked strictly confidential. It has reason to believe the document is not a hoax.

Notes on Irish Matters.

DUBLIN, June 17.—Anna Parnell writes that the fund for maintenance of suspects, for which purpose £24,000 has been collected, and £16,000 spent, should now be closed.

A man arrested at King's court on suspicion of being one of the murderers of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke has been released.

Col. Brackenbury, director of the new criminal investigation in the department of Ireland, is preparing extensive plans against secret societies, based upon investigations made in America.

Killed by the Riots.

ALEXANDRIA, June 17.—Up to last evening the total number of corpses found of Europeans killed in last Sunday's riots were 84. An eye witness states that the Europeans who took refuge in the police stations were massacred by gen d'armes. A correspondent declares the rising was organized by prefects of police. Thousands of Europeans are arriving from the interior.

What the Powers Would Do.

LONDON, June 17.—The Daily News, commenting on the Trescott dispatches to Secretary Frelinghuysen, says: None of the European powers would refuse to try the effect of peace between Chili and Peru, if so requested by belligerents; but the powers do not intend to coerce Chili at the request of Peru.

As Might have been Expected.

LONDON, June 17.—The government, with the approval of France and Turkey, has determined to protect the Suez canal with British troops. Transports accordingly have been ordered ready for embarkation.

Bound for the Front.

PORTSMOUTH, June 17.—The light draught gunboats Dee and Don have been ordered immediately to join the squadron of Admiral Seymour at Alexandria.

Egyptian Ministry.

Ragheb Pasha has consented to undertake the formation of a ministry.

Egyptian Notes.

Russia is preparing to send men-of-war to Alexandria.

The Tobacco Monopoly.

BERLIN, June 17.—Reichstag has agreed to Bismarck's motion for prorogueing until November 30. It is stated the government regards the small majority on the resolution adopted in Reichstag yesterday, declaring inadmissible any further measures burdening the tobacco trade as an indication that refusal of the Reichstag to accept the tobacco monopoly will not be permanent.

Russian Notes.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 17.—The minister of interior has ordered suspension of the newspaper Vissia for three months.

Many complaints of depredations by Chinese soldiers on inhabitants of Ili territory are made. The Kuldja telegraph line will be removed, as the Chinese continually damage it. Cossack patrols have been sent to the disturbed districts, but are unable to stop marauding unless reinforced.

Want America for a Hospital.

LEMBERG, June 17.—The Jewish committee here have informed the London committee that they will cease to act if the latter committee persists in forwarding to America only able bodied emigrants.

UTAH.

A Sting or Rebuke.

SALT LAKE, June 17.—The Tribune after speaking favorably of the men appointed on the Utah commission says: "At the same time the nomination of this commission is a slight and reproach to Utah. To ignore a whole people; to not be able to find one man in Utah, who in the President's estimation, is worthy to be named on this commission, is simply a proof that in the narrow estimation of the east, there is here both a low order of intellect and of integrity. It is the same feeling which in the east caused men in congress and those outside, who are given control of a corporation press, to refer to the solemn petition of 150,000 voters of California as simply a sand lot manifesto. It is a little hard to bear this assumed superiority of a people who, while strong in the aggregate individually, are so weak that it would take a thousand of them to supply manhood enough for one grey-shirted miner of the west; but it will all come right after a while. We do not doubt but President Arthur has done what he thought was best, with one jack-Mormon adviser in his cabinet and one man who knows nothing but the tricky side of politics, and who in every appointment seeks to place a support where it will be convenient to rest upon when the labor of putting up conventions two years hence will have to be done. We understand all this, but when a petition signed by the foremost men of the territory and backed by senators and judges of the supreme court of the United States, asking for an appointment on the score of eminent worth, stainless integrity and a full knowledge both of the law and of the facts, is contemptuously ignored, it would be cowardly not to say that the people here who have the greatest direct interest in this business, and those whose voices ought to have the most weight, feel that they have been personally and unjustly slighted, and that the president of the United States has served a notice upon the country, that in his estimation there is very little difference between the men here who are trying to uphold this republic, and those others who are trying to tear it down."

SILVER WEDDING AT EUGENE.

On Friday evening last Hon. B. F. Dorris and wife, of Eugene, were the recipients of a surprise party on the anniversary of their 25th, or silver wedding. The visitors numbered over one hundred, and after they were assembled, Rev. B. S. McLafferty made a very neat and appropriate address, after which congratulations and well wishes were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Dorris. Every visitor had a present to give, and the list of silverware was complete, from the beautiful silver cake basket presented by Mrs. P. J. Mann and Judge and Mrs. Lewis, from Portland, down to the small silver salt spoon—being altogether a complete silver service. A curiosity was exhibited in the way of a bottle of "Heidsick," preserved from the day Mr. and Mrs. Dorris were married. Inasmuch as the wine had been preserved so many years, the friends of Mr. Dorris insisted that the wine should be preserved for their golden wedding, and Mr. and Mrs. Dorris being temperate in the way of such things, readily consented, and the bottle was put away in store to await the fulfillment of the wishes of all present that it should get its neck broken 25 years hence. Mrs. Mann, of this city, was a guest of the wedding.

At the depot all assembled and a procession formed and moved at 8:45 through the principal streets as a torch-light procession. Many houses were illuminated and many places decorated. The streets were hung with flags and lined with green boughs. A fine display of fireworks was made on the line of march and also from the dome of the capitol as the procession passed. The procession brought up at Turner hall, where the president of the Sacramento Turners, J. J. Frabach, made the address of welcome. Major Brown welcomed the guests in behalf of the city. ROOFING COMPOSITION.

Patented Nov. 16, 1880.

This is a process by which a condemned tin or canvas roof can be made better than a new tin or canvas roof, and make it last forever.

It WILL NOT Crack and Leak

By reason of contraction or expansion, as is the result with a tin roof. It is simple in construction and durable in all climates. It consists only of cloth and paint composition.

BY PERMISSION WE REFER:

PORTLAND, Or., March 29, 1882.

MR. C. F. PEARSON, PORTLAND, OREGON:
Dear Sir—Your Roofing Composition has been thoroughly tried in this city, and so far as I know has given general satisfaction. From what I know and have seen I believe it to be better and more durable than either tin or asbestos. Very respectfully,

ALAMEDA, Cal., March 28, 1882.

MR. C. F. PEARSON:
Dear Sir—I take great pleasure in being able to say that I consider your "Roofing Composition" a first-class article for the purpose for which it is intended, and that it possesses all qualities claimed for it, and I can cheerfully recommend it to those having need for such an article. Very respectfully,
E. B. THOMPSON.

PORTLAND, Or., Feb. 21, 1882.

MR. C. F. PEARSON:
Dear Sir—Allow me to testify my appreciation of your durable roofing composition. As this steamer was placed on the opposition line last summer, it was roughly used by the passenger travel. It did not injure it at all. Had it been a tin or any other kind of roof it would have required repair, if not entirely spoiled. It is now in as good condition without any additional cost as when first put on. Yours respectfully,
JAMES WILSON,
Master O. R. & N. Co's Str. Emma Thompson.

PORTLAND, Or., Feb. 21, 1882.

MR. C. F. PEARSON:
Dear Sir—Notwithstanding our efforts to secure a good roof over our immense stock of goods—we have tried asbestos roof and plain tin roof, with all the mechanical skill—we have been losers of goods to thousands of dollars from leaky roofs until we got your roofing composition on over our store. It has given entire satisfaction. Never caused the loss of goods to the value of one cent. It has now been on for years. Very respectfully yours,
FLEISCHNER, MAYER & CO.,
Importers of Dry Goods.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 11, 1882.

C. F. PEARSON:
Dear Sir—I have tried your "Roofing Composition" on several of my houses in Portland, Oregon. They all, so far as I know, have given entire satisfaction. I believe it makes a better roof than tin or asbestos.
Respectfully yours,
J. C. AINSWORTH.

We claim it to be superior to anything yet discovered in the shape of a roof, as it will save its cost, even on a new roof, in less than no time.

The "Cloth Paint Composition," and the manner of applying the same, is included in the Letters of Patent granted Nov. 16, 1880. Any infringement on same shall be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Orders solicited on roofing and painting. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address orders to

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A testimonial (so called) published in THE OREGONIAN, purporting to have come from Julie Rive-King, the famous pianist, and without the signature of the author, wherein she approves and endorses the Steinway piano, demands a reply. Not only in justice to this great artist, but in justice to the famous Decker Bros.' piano, which Madam King uses exclusively at all of her concerts. Perfection in the construction of a piano is the great desideratum desired by such artists as Madam King. We admit that the Steinway once sustained quite a fair reputation—purchased with money—and many were sold for first-class pianos. But, like the stage coach of ye olden time, is left behind, to give place to the elegant palace car. Messrs. Decker Bros., of New York, after forty years of untiring energy, have produced the crowning perfection in piano-fortes. So enviable is their reputation that unprincipled parties have attempted to pirate their name, and counterfeit their pianos. Yes, resurrect from dusty archives feigned testimonials to support their failing business. In conclusion, suffice it to say, that the most convincing proof of the superiority of the Decker Bros. piano is that Madam King uses none other at all of her concerts. An electrotype testimonial to Messrs. Decker Bros., bearing her autograph, will appear in a few days.

CITY ELECTION TO-DAY.

To our city the election which will take place to-day will be more important in many respects than the state election of two weeks ago. It is in no sense a political contest. It is a question simply of local administration. That is, the issue presented is purely a matter of business. The city requires honest, efficient and responsible administration. Is it likely to find it under the influence and direction of those who have brought out Dr. Chapman for mayor? This is a question for our business men, property owners and taxpayers to pass upon.

The city of Portland ought to have an administration fully representing its intelligent enterprise, its business activity and its commercial importance,—in a word, representing its best energy and business character. Comparing the candidates for the mayoralty, it will scarcely be a matter of difficulty for any citizen to decide which of the two better answers the requirement. Going beyond the candidates themselves, taking note of their surroundings, observing that on the one hand it is a question of continuing an administration which has been reputable and efficient, and on the other of bringing in an administration handicapped with an element or influence that citizens—to draw it mildly—find no reason, out of an abundant knowledge of it, to trust or respect, and there should be quite as little or even less difficulty in determining what would be best for the city in the choice.

Between opposing republican factions in Portland there is bitter war. In some cases personal piques are passing into personal hatreds. The city contest of a year ago left irritation and grudges behind it. Not a few men are bitterly fighting Mr. Thompson for causes which had their rise then, forgetting entirely that the question before the people of Portland is not a matter of personal piques or resentments, but of selection of proper men to administer the affairs of the city. In these personal quarrels the mass of citizens take no interest whatever. They simply want the affairs of the city entrusted to and kept in the hands of competent and responsible men. To assure this the business classes of the city must give attention to the election to-day. They will be beaten if they do not. "The floating population," as one of our municipal statesmen has phrased it, will be marshalled solidly for the polls, and can only be beaten by the attendance of the business and working classes.

The city has far more need of Thompson for mayor than Thompson has of the mayoralty. It has far more need of Lappeus for chief of police than Lappeus has of the chiefship. Thompson has been mayor three years, and during that time the business of the city has had unusually careful and intelligent attention. His personal enemies are not satisfied, but is there any public reason for dissatisfaction? Against Lappeus as chief of police where is the ground of complaint? There is no ground of complaint stronger than the fact that others, less trustworthy, want places. But these places are for the service of the public, not for the accommodation of individuals. To Lappeus the city owes an incalculable debt for his vigilance, activity and courage during the prevalence of small pox here. Not one man in a thousand would have served it so well. The city should always select men who are fittest to serve it. It is now asked to select men because they want office. Local administration comes directly home to men's business; and what business man would select an assistant on such principle?

Bliss, in prosecuting the star route thieves at Washington the other day, instanced the route from Eugene City to Bridge Creek in this state. Peck got this contract at $2468. Relying on getting it "expedited," he agreed at once to give the sub-contractor $2700 to carry it. In a few weeks he began to receive from the government $19,135 36 from this same route; but he was honest and liberal, and in settling with the department he allowed the government the odd nine cents per quarter.

Besser's note to Dr. Chapman is not precisely the kind of document the public would like to see from the finished literary hand of the third ward boss. A more pleasing document would be an epistle to the city auditor enclosing the amount due the city on the old account of an ex-chief of police. If such payment has ever been made the record of it has escaped our notice.

The refusal of the democratic city convention to nominate a candidate for mayor undoubtedly sprung from a purpose to transfer the democratic vote to Dr. Chapman. Perhaps it will not be easy to deliver the goods to a man who took himself out of the democratic party in the way Chapman did.

They do Dr. Chapman little service who press him as a "stalwart." The very word is a stench and an infamy. Guiteau is its synonym, spoils its inspiration, and the murder of President Garfield a natural consequence of it. We trust Dr. Chapman himself does not accept the word.

Dr. Chapman says he will not appoint Besser. This would seem to place "Gov." Daniels in the line of promotion, since he is the best and most conspicuous man, after Besser, in the syndicate that brought Dr. Chapman out.

If the people of Portland are willing to trust the administration of the affairs of their city to a combination in which the influence of such men as Besser and Giltner is predominant, then they will elect Dr. Chapman.

A letter mailed 17 years ago was found the other day in the casing of a car which was undergoing repair in Chicago. It was addressed to a lady in Joliet, Ill., and, being forwarded, found its owner.

Portland requires a firm and independent man in the mayor's office; not a man selected for his complaisance to back politicians and spoils hunters.

Messrs. Smith, Barber and Adams are excellent men for the common council. It is seldom that all the selections are so good.

COTTON MANUFACTURE IN THE SOUTH.

Georgia has already taken rank among the manufacturing states. The following figures from official reports of the exposition held last fall, show what has been done in eleven years:

	1870.	1881.
Spindles	85,000	200,974
Looms	4,887	4,713
Hands employed	2,846	6,679
Cotton consumed, lbs	18,221,178	34,000,000
Capital	$3,433,000	$6,690,000

The progress made in North Carolina is shown by the following comparison:

	1870.	1881.
Spindles	39,800	102,767
Looms	[illegible]	1,939
Hands employed	1,443	3,438
Cotton consumed, lbs	[illegible]	13,750,000
Capital	[illegible]	$3,301,311

Since the issuance of the statement of 1881 there has been an unparalleled increase of cotton manufacturing in all the southern states, and the increase of spindles for 1881 and 1882, actually in operation or contracted for, will exceed the whole number in operation prior to the first named year. Though the increase shown by the data above, amounting from 200 to 300 per cent., purports to cover about twelve years, it is in truth mainly the fruit of three years' growth, from 1878 to 1881. Prior to 1878 there was little industrial growth of any kind in the south during the past decade. If in iron, wool and other manufacturing the southern portion of the union has made equal progress it is certainly on the way to a most gratifying general prosperity.

Loafers, hoodlums, spoils-hunters and deadbeats generally, who pay no taxes of any kind but are making a contest to-day in the city to get a chance to live upon the taxes which responsible citizens pay, are having a great deal to say on the street corners, in low drinking holes and through the hoodlum Sunday papers, about the rate of taxation required to carry on the city government. They profess to think it altogether too high, and to believe that Dr. Chapman would reduce it. Of course they don't want money expended for any such useless purpose as that of keeping the river open to commerce, preparation for which is the [illegible]. It is a great wrong to use money in this way which they would employ for the support of Gordes' "poor men," and for the support of the needy and seedy municipal statesmen with whom Portland abounds. Their idea of city administration is to devise ways to make beer flow more freely, to render it easier for gentlemen who have no legitimate business but to whom the world "owes a living," to get on comfortably,—in a word to make the property of a city support its idleness, worthlessness and vice. This is the soul of the movement on the part of the taxeaters against the taxpayers. They who are most active in leading this movement are men who have no legitimate occupation, and who live by means that would not bear any sort of inquiry. Owners of property do not object to payment of taxes when the revenues are used for proper purposes; but they do object, if the revenues are to become the prey and spoil of an irresponsible gang whose constant study it is to devise ways and means of living at the public expense, with stealings to support the demands of vicious lives.

Postmaster General Howe states very clearly the right principles upon which the contemplated reduction in postal rates should be made. It is assumed that the present and future cost of the service, as compared with its receipts, will warrant lower rates of postage. The postmaster general, discussing the question of reduction as between second class matter and fourth class matter, does not hesitate to declare that newspapers and magazines (which go as second class) should be carried free, rather than four-pound packages of merchandise, which comprise the fourth class named in the postal schedule. This is sound. There have always been grave objections against the carriage of merchandise in the mails at cheap rates, and there is no good reason why this class of mail matter should be carried free. The newspapers, as a rule, have made no clamor for free transmission in the mails. There has been, however, a general manifestation of public opinion that, if postal rates are to be reduced, letter postage should be lowered from three cents to two cents, first, and that if any further reduction can be made, it should be for the benefit of the readers of newspapers and magazines.

The presence of ice in the north Atlantic constitutes the chief source of danger to steamers engaged in the trans-Atlantic trade. It must also be regarded as a growing danger. Twenty-five years ago ice was rarely sighted in the neighborhood of the Banks before June, but now it makes its appearance as early as March, and even February. Formerly two or three icebergs or a small quantity of field ice were all that any vessel would be expected to meet in the course of a summer, but now we hear of ice fields three hundred square miles in extent and of hundreds of icebergs drifting across the Banks within sight of one another. What has caused the ice to appear earlier and in larger quantities year by year, no one can tell, but it probably has some connection with the same climatic changes which of late years have made the northwest winds the frequent bearers of rain, although a quarter of a century ago no sailor ever dreamed of rain as an accompaniment of a northwest wind.

A DENIAL. IN ANSWER TO AN ALLEGED AFFIDAVIT published in a hoodlum sheet this morning, I wish to say that every word referring to myself is unqualifiedly false and malicious. I was not even acquainted with Carrie Bradley on the 15th day of January, 1882, and at no time ever had an interview with the Chief of Police Lappeus, in her presence, or relating to her in the most remote way.

My attention was called to the lying publication at 11 o'clock this (Sunday) night; else I should have met the lying accusation with such evidence as would have shown its utter untruthfulness and malice.

TOOK HIM FOR A MINISTER.—"If he hadn't been such a nice-looking man, and a minister, too, I'd feel like swearing at him. I'll be hanged if I wouldn't!" ejaculated our new young man last night, after rummaging through a pile of papers on his desk. "What's the matter now?" queried the city editor. "Matter enough! Here I just went to the expense of buying a bran new pencil; and now this man went and stole it," replied the new young man. "Who was it, and how do you know he stole it?" said the city editor. "Why, you see a nice-looking man, with a nice black necktie, came in while you were out, and he said he would like to write a marriage notice for a young couple he had just joined in the bands of holy wedlock, and asked wouldn't I lend him a pencil. I knew he was a minister right away and I gave him the new pencil, all nicely sharpened and now I can't find it anywhere. He must have walked away with it. Perhaps that's the way that ministers do out here," and the new young man viciously slapped at a fly on the wall with the paste brush. "Where's the notice?" asked the city editor. "There it is on your desk," was the answer. A glance revealed the name of R. E. Bybee as performing the ceremony. The new young man don't know yet why the city editor fell out of his chair and laughed till he cried and every man on the second floor rushed in to see what was the matter. And Bob didn't take the pencil either. The new young man found it several hours later, hidden in one of the folds of his ear.

CHILD DROWNED.—Shortly before noon yesterday, Chas. Burgess, a blacksmith in the employ of Samuel Holden, on Third street, left his home in East Portland with his twin sons, aged about two years and came to Knoll's saloon on Third street near Alder. They took seats in the bar-room, the children being the admiration of several men present. The little ones were chasing a cat about the premises and the braver of the two, Joseph, followed the cat into a dark closet connected by stairs with the cellar in which there was less than two feet of water. The closet was hidden from the view of those in the bar-room by a partition. After a while the child was missed and the barkeeper went to the cellar, lighted a lamp, but could see nothing of the boy. No splash or other unusual noise had been heard, and the father concluded that the child had wandered to the street. Indeed a man who came in said he saw the boy on the sidewalk, but subsequent discovery showed that this was the brother. Twenty minutes had passed and the boy being still missing, thorough search was instituted, and the body found in the cellar near the foot of the stairs. The child had evidently been in the water for half an hour. A physician was summoned, but the case was beyond the reach of human skill. The body was conveyed to Emry & Garnold's and prepared for burial. No inquest was held.

GIVING UP ITS DEAD.—Another dead body was discovered floating in the Willamette yesterday. It was first noticed by little Willie Ladd and his sister, who were walking along Water street near the L street ferry slip in East Portland. They called the attention of some men to the body who brought it up to the shore near the foot of J street and sent for coroner Garnold. The body was that of a man of medium stature, evidently a laborer, wearing a pair of heavy boots, blue overalls with a strap around the waist, a checked cotton shirt of foreign manufacture and a dark coat. It had evidently been in the water for several weeks. When the coroner arrived the body was removed to the morgue. In one of the pockets of the overalls was a small stamp and a common shipping tag with "Europe hotel, No. 10," written on one side and "James Lee" on the other. Coroner Garnold visited the Europe hotel and found that James Lee was alive and well. He could not account for his name being on the card, but the hotel clerk remembered writing the name of the house and the number "10" and affixing it to a small parcel left in his care several weeks ago by a young man, who could speak neither English or German. He stayed but a few days and took his parcel away with him. The clerk could not remember the man's name. This is all the clue that has been found as yet to the man's identity.

FRENCH FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the newly organized St. [illegible] society will hold their first strawberry and ice cream festival at the Catholic library rooms adjoining the cathedral, next Friday evening at 8 o'clock. During the evening those present will be favored with choicest musical selections from the best local talent. The ladies on the committee are energetic and competent to make it a great success. It promises to be a very enjoyable affair. The public are cordially invited. This being their first call on the public, their worthy undertaking should meet with liberal patronage. The number of urgent cases reported since their organization has necessitated their raising more funds for their numerous disbursements.

FELL IN THE RIVER.—Just as the boat was landing at Oregon City yesterday with the excursionists from Portland and Vancouver, one of Uncle Sam's men, from the military post, who was standing near the edge of the barge, lost his balance by a sudden jar and fell into the river. A life preserver was thrown him, but he became too much excited to notice it, and, for a moment he seemed likely to drown. A rope was then thrown him, which he grasped, and he was being drawn up, but his hands slipped and he again sank below the surface. When he came up he again grasped the rope, and this time was drawn out of his involuntary bath, a thoroughly wet and frightened man.

PREPARING FOR THE FOURTEENTH.—Yesterday afternoon a goodly number of Frenchmen met in the orchestral union hall to take steps to celebrate their national holiday. C. Pater was called to the chair, and Ed. Salmon was chosen secretary. The following gentlemen were chosen officers of the day: Honorary president, Hon. A. Labbe, permanent president, C. Pater; vice president, J. A. Lesourd; secretary, Ed. Salmon; treasurer, A. Salmon. Committees were appointed to raise funds and to arrange a programme, and report next Sunday.

IRISH LAND LEAGUE.—The meeting was largely attended at Red Men's hall yesterday. The committee in charge of picnic asked further time for collection of tickets and reported between two and three hundred dollars over expenses received. The singing of ladies and gentlemen was of the best description and an address on the land question by Mr. Gordon was interesting and instructive, as also a very entertaining address from Capt. P. Maloney. The committee on literary exercises promises extra attractions for next Sunday.

WEDDING YESTERDAY.—A number of the friends of the bride and groom witnessed the nuptials of Mr. Fred. B. Potts, Jr., of Walla Walla, W. T., and Miss Emma J. Henry, in the parlor of the St. Charles hotel, Sunday afternoon. The bride, accompanied by her brother-in-law, E. A. Denick and his wife, arrived in the morning by the steamer Oregon from San Francisco. The ceremony was performed by R. E. Bybee, Esq. After the ceremony the wedding party partook of an elegant dinner at the St. Charles.

NO FOURTH IN PORTLAND.—It is not likely there will be a formal celebration of the Fourth of July in Portland. The Grand Army of the Republic have abandoned the plan of holding a reunion on that date, but will make arrangements to have grand reunion during the Mechanics' fair. They will join their comrades and the military in the celebration of the Fourth at Vancouver. Many of the Portland firemen will go to Astoria and participate in the tournament.

RUNAWAY.—Saturday afternoon while Mrs J. B. Congle, her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Wyatt, and grandson, Connie Wyatt, were driving towards the car shops on the east side, the horse in play began to run. He became unmanageable and ran at full speed for more than a mile over a road bordered with stumps and very rough. The buggy was smashed, but fortunately none of the occupants received a scratch.

COMPARISON AT THE DALLES.—Samuel L. Brooks writes to THE OREGONIAN in answer to the inquiry of "W. P." that the high water mark at The Dalles in 1862 was 46 feet 11 inches; in 1876, 51 feet 3 inches. The Willamette at this point was 11 inches higher in '76 than in '62.

OVERLAND MAILS.—The 72 hour schedule between San Francisco and Portland via the C. & O. stage line went into effect on the 15th, and the first through mail will reach Portland to-night. The arrangement, as heretofore, will continue during the summer.

THE STEAMSHIP.—The Oregon arrived here at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The line to Astoria was down, hence no news of the Columbia's crossing out. She is likely to be in San Francisco by this time.

BRADLEY'S LAST SAY.

SHE INSISTS THAT DOLLY ADAMS KILLED BROWN.

Several Points Not Educed in the Testimony. She Tells How Adams Was Drilled in Her Story.

"Now that the trial is over, and you have received your sentence, and the exact truth can't affect you," said an OREGONIAN reporter to Carrie Bradley yesterday, "tell me who really killed Brown?"

In a matter-of-fact, careless way, as if she were repeating what everybody already knew to be true, she answered: "Why, Dolly Adams, a little goose, of course!"

"How did she kill him?" asked the reporter.

"I don't know. She took him up stairs and put him to bed. There were two empty bottles of chloroform—the size we pay 50 cents for at the drug stores. She might have taken part of it, because she was used to taking chloroform. I never saw the man from the time he went up stairs until Dolly came down in the morning and told me he was dead. She told me she went to his room about three o'clock in the morning, and that the man was dying there. She said he opened his eyes and said 'Oh, Dolly!' and then took three or four more breaths and was dead." I asked her why she didn't call me. She said, 'Pshaw, if I had I bet you you would have brought him to, and I wanted the old —— to die.' She wanted to cut him to pieces and throw the pieces into different parts of the river. She said when she was living in the house next door to mine they killed a man and put him to pieces on an oil cloth."

Reporter—Why didn't you tell this on the stand?

Bradley—Because I was too glad to get off the stand. I'd rather go to the penitentiary ten times than get up and testify again.

Reporter—Well, you got off cheap enough, after all.

Bradley—Not so very cheap. I wasn't in a bit deeper than Pete Sullivan, and he got only five years; and Dolly Adams gets off free, and she's the one that killed him. Never mind. Some day Dolly will get drunk, just like she did the Friday night she give the thing away, and she'll tell how she killed Brown, and brag that we are in the penitentiary for it. Mollie Flippen never would have corroborated Dolly's story, except that Dolly threatened to implicate her if she didn't. If that bribery story had not come out, I would have beat the case, and then I'd have had to stand trial as accessory after the fact. Of course I couldn't get out of that, because I was plainly guilty.

SWEARING HER LIFE AWAY

Bradley, since the trial has occupied one of the best rooms facing south, the one previously occupied by Dolly Adams. Before, she was confined in the large inner cell adjoining this apartment. She continued indignantly: "Just think of it. When I was in the other cell I could hear Simmons come into Dolly's room night after night and drill her in what she should swear to. I could hear her repeat the story until she knew it like a b c's and could say it backwards. And you know from the way she testified that she learned the story mighty well. Just imagine how I felt, lying there and hearing those people practicing how they would swear my life away."

Reporter—Do you know anything about Welch's disappearance?

Bradley—I think Dolly killed him.

Reporter—What makes you think so

Bradley—I don't know any circumstances, but I just think so. You know she spread the story about me killing Welch, cutting him up and throwing him in the vault. I tell you I was scared when I heard that. After I was arrested in San Francisco Mr. Baltimore, who used to be local on your paper, came to interview me. I had been talking with him quite a while, and all at once he pulled out a dispatch from Portland saying that I was accused of murdering Welch. I laughed at it at first, and after a while I got to thinking that some one might have killed him and carried him through the side yard to the vault. The gate and door were seldom locked, and they might have thrown a dozen men in and I not know it. The more I thought of it the more I got nervous and that night I didn't sleep a wink.

Bradley is very cheerful and does not seem to dread the twelve years' imprisonment before her. She will be taken to Salem to-day.

THE REWARD FOR BRADLEY'S ARREST.

A Letter from the Chief of Police at San Francisco on the Subject.

It having been alleged by irresponsible publications here that Chief Lappeus tried to screen Bradley, and that he took no part in the measures which brought about her arrest and the disclosure of the crime, it may be as well to print the following letter from the chief of police at San Francisco, who, it will be observed, distinctly says that it was on information furnished by Lappeus that the arrest of Bradley was made. It was, moreover, upon information furnished by Lappeus that the women Adams and Flippen were taken before the grand jury. Lappeus called the district attorney to the police office, and then and there the case was first laid before him. This was on the 7th of February, a full week before any of the facts in the case began to be known to others. The letter from Chief Crowley is specific and direct against Simmons' claim. It will be observed that Lappeus does not claim the reward. It is claimed by the officers in San Francisco, who hunted up the parties and made the arrests. Following is the letter:

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10, 1882.

J. H. Lappeus, Esq., Chief of Police, Portland, Oregon: Dear Sir: You have already been informed that officers John Coffey, John Meagher, B. F. Bohen and W. S. Jones, who arrested Carrie Bradley and John Mahone, claim the reward offered for the arrest of the murderers of N. Brown. I have to request your advice as to the proper method of presenting their claim. Shall they send you the power of attorney to act, or would you rather name some one else? If you do not wish to act, please suggest some one in whom you have full confidence. I hear that Mr. Simmons intends to put in a claim for himself. I know of no service rendered by him which would entitle him to claim the reward. All the correspondence in the case passed between you and me as you know, and it was on that information the arrest was made; Simmons gave no information or assistance conducive to the arrest or discovery or production of evidence. I think that the interest of justice requires that the claims of my officers should be recognized, because they have done the work faithfully, and to defeat their claim would have a tendency to discourage officers in detecting such offenders in like cases in future. I have Simmons' receipt for the prisoners as constable and agent for Oregon. He told me at the time I delivered him the prisoners that there was no reward, and said if there should be any, he would inform me at once, and aid my officers to receive it, so the matter rested until we heard Mr. Simmons was about to claim the reward.

Sheriff Rahn, of Solano county, arrested Sullivan, and is in accord with us, and will join in any papers you may advise. He claimed the reward for Sullivan before he delivered him to me, and I promised he should have my assistance to get it. I telegraphed to Judge Rice June 8th that my officers claimed the reward. Hoping to hear from you soon I remain very truly yours,
P. CROWLEY,
Chief of Police.

WON BY ONE.

The Base Ball Game between the Stars, of Portland, and the Buffsticks, of Vancouver, at Oregon City Yesterday.

A cloudy sky and sprinkles of rain during the morning foreboded no good to excursionists yesterday, but with the exception of a slight shower, the weather was all that could have been wished. Nearly 800 persons attended the base ball game at Oregon City, from Portland and Vancouver. The general result of the game was very gratifying to the Stars, who add another victory over the Buffsticks to their list. The large score is partly accounted for by the wet ball and ground, but there were many errors in playing made by both clubs.

The game was called promptly on time, and the first inning looked as though it might be a crack game, both clubs retiring from the bat in one, two, three order. In the second innings it began to rain, the ball became slippery and the score ran up, the Buffsticks leading by one. The umpire called time at the close, and the game stopped half an hour, until the shower was over. After this everything was wet, and the scorers were kept busy chalking tallies until the fifth inning, when good work was done, and two more goose eggs were put in the nest. In the sixth inning the Buffsticks retired their opponents with a Chicago, and scored two, only one behind the Stars. In the seventh inning the Stars scored four, and were enthusiastic and careless. By the most egregious errors the Buffsticks scored nine, and the Vancouverites wildly offered to bet two to one on their home club. In the eighth inning, however, the Stars ran four, and retired the Buffsticks, and the game was even. In the ninth inning the Stars scored three, and made way for the Buffsticks, who scored two runs and one man on first base, with no one out. Then Foley went out on a foul, and another man was put on a base, Smith, the catcher, a heavy batter, stepped up to the plate. He sent up a beautiful sky-scraper, way over into the left field, and at least a hundred feet away from Malarkey. It was a hard run, and a harder catch, but Malarkey was equal to it, capturing the fly and fielding the ball in time to save a tally. McConnell dropped at first, and the game was over. Malarkey's splendid catch saved the Stars from otherwise certain defeat. A home run in the fourth inning is also to be marked to his credit. Following is

DROWNED.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

KALAMA, June 17.

A. C. Boyn, a farmer, living on the Oregon side of the river, a short distance above Kalama, was drowned yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The accident happened near Enterprise Landing, opposite Kalama. He was alone in a small boat, and was partially intoxicated at the time. The wind was blowing strong, and the river very rough for this time of year. He lost his balance and fell overboard, and the boat drifted away from him. The deceased was a Scotchman, but had lived many years in France, and was in the French army during the Franco-Prussian war. He was well educated, and possessed many sociable qualities, but was the victim of an appetite that he could not control.

James F. Brown Found in his Bed in a Dying Condition.

James F. Brown, justice of the peace of Dallas precinct, was found in his bed on Thursday morning in an unconscious condition and died soon after, notwithstanding vigorous efforts were made by Dr. J. N. Smith to resuscitate him.

Mr. Brown had for many years been a sufferer with asthma and had been in the habit of using chloroform in excessive quantities. He had suffered more than common of late and had used such a great quantity of chloroform that the doctors of this place had refused to prescribe it for him any more. On Saturday last he went to Salem and on Tuesday he obtained a prescription from Dr. H. R. Holmes and had it filled at a Salem drug store. He returned to the drug store soon after and told the druggist he had broken the bottle and wished to have the prescription refilled. He came home on Wednesday and when he was found on Thursday morning the vials obtained in Salem were found by his bed empty.

Dr. T. J. Lee, coroner, was sent for and held an inquest, but the jury were unable to determine whether he had taken the medicine with suicidal intent or not.

Mr. Brown had resided in Dallas for about four years, coming here from Elsinore. He was about 60 years of age and was a widower. He has no relatives in this state that are known. His funeral took place yesterday morning.—Polk Co. Itemizer, June 17th.

To put in a furnace and finish the work on the church already begun will cost over $100 more, which they hope to raise soon.

NEWS OF SATURDAY.

[From the Sunday Oregonian.]

Railroad Meeting.

CHICAGO, June 16.—An important meeting of the managers of the Northwestern railway pool was held here this afternoon. The roads represented were the Missouri Pacific, Wabash, Chicago & Alton, Hannibal & St. Joe, Chicago Burlington & Quincy, and Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific. It was agreed to advance passenger rates June 20th to the following schedule: Chicago to Kansas city, $12 65; Chicago to St. Louis, $7 50; St. Louis to Kansas city, $7 50. It was provided that outstanding unlimited tickets should be honored by all parties to the contract. It is estimated something less than 15,000 of these are now out, in the hands of ticket scalpers and speculators. The passenger rate war, of which this is the end, began a year ago last December, since which time fares have been about as follows: Chicago to Kansas city, $5; Chicago to St. Louis, $4 70; and tickets sold on the rebate plan.

Criminal Notes.

DENVER, Col., June 16.—A Republican's special from Rico, in this state, says: This morning at 2 o'clock a party entered the jail at Rico and took out two murderers—Thomas Wall and Trinidad Charley—and hung them in a small cabin opposite the jail. Trinidad shows marks of making a severe fight. They were shackled together leg and arm.

The Tribune's Albuquerque, N. M., A Mohave Apache Indian went to the ranch of Mr. Watkins, at Dudley, and Mrs. Watkins being alone, the Indian attempted to outrage her. She seized a Winchester rifle and shot him through the head.

ST. LOUIS, June 16.—A Post dispatch, Albuquerque, N. M., special says: Milton Yarbourg was hanged here this afternoon for the murder of Chas. Campbell. Thousands witnessed the execution, including Mexicans, cowboys, railroad men and miners. Numerous fights occurred, but no interference. Yarbourg died with characteristic bravery, and struggled only slightly. He was a native Mexican, gambler, rough, cowboy and robber, and had killed several men. He was one of Billy the Kid's gang.

A New Party Formed.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The independent labor party organized to-night by adoption of a platform that American mails be carried by American vessels; that "corners" in food and produce be prohibited, and opposing Chinese and convict labor. Vanderbilt and Gould, being, in the opinion of members, largely interested in labor, will be invited to address the next meeting.

Eastern Freight Situation.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Although the freight market is very dull, there is still a fair amount of business doing at wharves. Several California vessels will get off this month. The bulk of shipments are of heavy goods, including railroad iron, but there are more goods of a light class going forward than for a long time. Rates remain steady at the following quotations: [illegible] weight, $8 50 [illegible] per ton; iron, $7 50 [illegible]; coal, $7 [illegible] per ton; oil, 30@32½c per case; nails, [illegible]c per keg; whisky, $2 per bbl; canned goods, 20c per case; cement, $1 10@1 12½ per bbl; plaster and rosin, $1 per bbl; lumber, $14@25 per thousand feet. Tonnage is very plenty, but [illegible] are not anxious, as [illegible] that the supply will continue. Railroad freights are fairly active. Shipments the past week include 33 bbls and 61 cases petroleum, 100 cases milk, 32 boxes raisins, 360 kegs syrup, 25 bbls [illegible], 30 half-barrels do, 150 bags coffee, 275 boxes lemons, 25 boxes cheese, 30 bbls currants, 100 boxes pepper sauce, 59 cases canned goods, 50 cases wine, 37 cases sauce, 50 cases salad dressing, 335 kegs pickled fish, 150 boxes soap, 10 bbls starch, 50 boxes candles, 325 bales oakum and 630 pkgs tobacco. Various fast freight lines to the Pacific coast are making active competition for freight. The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe announces the appointment of Charles D. Simonson as agent for that road. Mr. Simonson has been connected with the California trade many years, having been with clipper lines before his connection with railroads. He also had some experience with the Pacific Mail Co. and was sent to San Francisco to look after freighting matters there.

SATURDAY'S LOCAL NEWS.

(Condensed from The Sunday Oregonian.)

Rose's butcher shop at Summit station was destroyed by fire Saturday forenoon.

The Grand Jury presented one indictment Saturday and adjourned until Wednesday next.

Henry Jones, of East Portland, lost a fine stallion Saturday by death. He valued it at $1000.

The Third ward hook and ladder company of East Portland will have a house warming next Wednesday evening.

The Congregational Sunday-school of Holladay's addition, East Portland, are making arrangements for an excursion by moonlight to Oregon City next Friday evening.

During the present stage of high water, and until further notice, the O. R. & N. Co. boats for the upper Columbia, will leave at 5 A. M., the old schedule, instead of 9 A. M.

The Simpson warehouse of Silver station was sold Saturday under a chattel mortgage, bringing the sum of five hundred dollars. Mr. Benj. J. Cohen was the purchaser.

John Engler, a man working for the O. R. & N. Co., had his left arm fractured below the elbow the other day by a rail falling against it which he and several others were trying to lift. The accident occurred at the front about six miles out toward the Sandy.

In the case of the state against William White, charged with burglary in the stealing of a pair of opera glasses, the prisoner was arraigned in the state circuit court Saturday. He entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced by Judge Stott to two years in the penitentiary.

Petitions for the pardon of Tim Wheelan, who was sent to the penitentiary for five years for cutting the throat of a woman on Third street, several months ago, are being circulated. One was presented by the mother of the prisoner herself to District Attorney Caples, but he refused to grant her request.

The democratic "citizens" of East Portland met on Friday night at Neppach's hall and elected a ticket for the city as follows: Recorder, J. T. Stewart; treasurer, W. B. Welch; assessor, A. H. McEwan; street commissioner, Wash Jones; marshal, Geo. Linville. Trustees—First ward, N. B. Crane; Second ward, Wm. Underhill; Third ward, E. J. Sprague.

John E. Welsh, a grocer, caused the arrest of Paul Labbe, charging him with perjury in falsely swearing to a complaint some time ago in a civil suit between the two, which was tried in Justice Bushwiler's court. Labbe was taken before Justice Phelan by Constable Grant, where he waived examination and was held to answer before the grand jury in the sum of $500.

The straight democrats of East Portland met at the council room last night, in that city, to make nominations for the election to-morrow. After some debate it was resolved that the convention accept the nominees of the "citizens'" convention of the evening previous, so no nominations were made. This leaves the field for recorder and councilman in the first and third wards with only one candidate at present. It is highly probable that independent candidates will be put up, however, as the bait is too tempting to be let pass by so easily.

The East Portland Vindicator is authority for the following: "At the request of a large number of prominent republicans of East Portland, who desire a representative in the sheriff's office, Mr. Geo. C. Sears, sheriff elect, has granted the petition by appointing as deputy in the place now held by Wm. Eppinger, the gentleman who now occupies the place of bookkeeper for Hall & Stott in this city, Mr. T. C. Powell. The selection gives general satisfaction to our citizens, as Mr. Powell is entirely suitable for the place and none other better than he could have been selected from this side of the river."

Saturday articles were filed in the county clerk's office, incorporating the City View Park Association. The incorporators are R. B. Knapp, W. S. Sibson and W. H. Creighton; capital stock $60,000, divided into 600 shares of $100 each. Their object is to transact a general real estate business. Ten gentlemen who recently bought the grounds—about 160 acres—from P. J. Martin, composed the association. The park will be used for the same purposes it is now occupied and leases granted by Mr. Martin will be continued. At a meeting of the directors held at the office of Sibson, Church & Co., the following officers were elected: R. B. Knapp, president; R. E. Bybee, vice president; W. H. Creighton, secretary; W. Sibson, treasurer, and Jos. Buchtel, manager.

Saturday evening, at half-past seven, the East Portland water company gave an exhibition [illegible] its efficiency as a fire department. A [illegible] at the corner of Fourth and [illegible] streets, and at the appointed time a regulation hose furnished by the Portland fire department, was attached. It was fifty feet in length, with a three-quarter inch spray nozzle. The pressure was from the reservoir above, and the stream thrown measured 155 feet in length, solid, though water actually went, in the form of spray, the distance of ten feet further. A perpendicular stream was thrown over 70 feet, and several times during the display water was thrown over new hydrant had been placed in the sidewalk Neppach's hall and other surrounding buildings.

We had the pleasure of a visit Saturday from Mr. Joseph C. Parker, of Windsor, Vermont. He and the pioneer printer of this city, W. D. Carter, were school-boys together. He is now largely interested in the manufacture of woolen goods, and in company with one hundred and forty others is visiting this coast upon a trip of pleasure and recreation. However, out of the one hundred and forty, he is the only one who ventured to make the trip to this northern Pacific coast. He is delighted with his experiences, and before returning to his eastern home will visit different parts of the Willamette and Columbia river valleys and the Puget Sound country. Mr. Parker is one of the commissioners of the Vermont state penitentiary, and as such takes a lively interest in the management of such institutions. On Monday last he visited the Oregon penitentiary, and was well pleased with the management of that institution.

Another of the pioneers of Oregon has crossed the snowy range and entered the bright valley of immortality. William P. Doland died on Friday at St. Vincent's hospital, from atrophy produced by paralysis. Mr. Doland came to Oregon from New Jersey in 1850 and settled in Milwaukie. At one period he owned a large tract of land in and around that town. In the flood of 1862 his property, in the shape of flouring mills, was partially destroyed. In 1854 Mr. Doland, while engaged one day in cleaning snow from the roof of the Canton, afterwards the American Exchange hotel, at the foot of Washington street, fell through the roof and seriously injured his spine. From the results of this accident his lower limbs became permanently paralyzed. Some years ago Mr. Doland was elected county treasurer for two terms, which office he filled to the satisfaction of the taxpayers. About five years ago his wife died, since which time he has lived alone in a little house on Third street. One son survives him, Fred Doland, a young man who is well known in Portland. The deceased was in his 58th year. The funeral will take place this afternoon at [illegible] o'clock from the residence of his brother-in-law, [illegible]dall, corner of Sixth and Madison streets.

A span of horses belonging to Clark Lawrence was drowned Saturday afternoon, at the intersection of Second and H streets in East Portland. The accident happened about 5 o'clock. A brother of Clark was driving the team at the time, engaged in filling H street with dirt. He drove down H until the team [illegible] Second, which street is an elevated one [illegible] of gravel extending along the low land now [illegible]. Directly in front of the horses, almost [illegible] feet, the water was nearly twenty feet [illegible]. When young Lawrence drove down H street [illegible] sunk down in the soft earth just placed [illegible], the team stopped. Lawrence spoke to [illegible] sharply and gave them a smart cut with [illegible], when they sprang forward over the second [illegible] and sank immediately in the deep water, [illegible] the wagon and its load of earth in after [illegible]. Although strenuous efforts were made to rescue the horses they were both drowned. Their bodies and the wagon were hauled ashore later in the evening. A number of Lawrence's friends at once circulated a paper to raise money to enable him to replace the team, and in a few moments' time the sum of $200 was raised. The amount will be increased and a new team will be presented to him. He had repeatedly refused $400 for the horses and as they were his only means of making a living for his family, the substantial sympathy he received was not unpleasant.

The body of a man was found floating on the surface of the Willamette Saturday morning near Albina. It was discovered by an employe of Kallick's ice works, who was standing near the pontoon of the old saw mill. He immediately came to the city and notified Coroner Garnold, who went to the spot and ordered the removal of the body to the morgue. The appearance of the body showed that it had been in the water a long time—over a month, at least. The features were unrecognizable, but letters and papers found on the body establish its identity as that of Thomas Kerrigan. Kerrigan was an Irishman of the laboring class, and while in the city during the months of February and March, had been a boarder at the Nicolai house. On the 8th of May he went to work on the railroad in the vicinity of Albina. Several days after that he disappeared and nothing has been heard of him until his body was found in the river. [illegible] near sighted and is supposed to have fallen into the river by accident and drowned. On one of his hands was a double little finger, and this was recognized by several of his fellow boarders at the Nicolai. The deceased was about 5 feet 8 inches high and was dressed, when found, in a pair of brown overalls, blue checked shirt, dark coat, brogans and socks. In the pocket of the overalls were $7 50 in cash. The deceased had two brothers, one living in Ireland and the other in Nevada.

District Attorney Caples filed Saturday before Judge Stott, of the state circuit court, the mandate of the supreme court in the case of Jack Powers. A motion was also filed, asking that the court enter judgment in accordance with the mandate and fix the day for the execution of the sentence of death which has been passed upon the prisoner. No action has yet been taken by the court in the matter.

The following petition is now in circulation in this city, and being extensively signed:

To His Exc. W. W. Thayer, Governor of the State of Oregon: Your petitioners show that on the fifth day of November, 1881, J. C. Powers was convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree, in the circuit court of the state of Oregon for the county of Multnomah, upon an indictment charging him with the murder of Mr. Ben Cornelius. That the following facts are indisputable:

First—The difficulty between Powers and Cornelius arose out of a family quarrel of long standing, in the course of which each had threatened the life of the other.

Second—Cornelius and Powers had a street fight in Portland on the 4th of July, 1881, in the course of which Cornelius was killed, and Powers was shot three times.

Third—That there was upon the trial a very great conflict in the evidence introduced upon the question as to which commenced the fight, and as to which fired the first shot.

Fourth—Powers was shot through the neck, and is still suffering from the wound, to an extent which makes it certain that he will never recover, and highly probable that the effect will yet be fatal in a short time.

In view of these facts your petitioners most humbly but most earnestly ask you to interpose such executive clemency as in your judgment the facts warrant, so that the condemned man may live out the few days yet remaining to him, and die without the dark shadow of the gallows being so unjustly cast upon him and his innocent children.

STILL FALLING.

Celilo—River fell 2 inches; thermometer, 65.

The O. R. & N. Co. received the following at 2:30 P. M. yesterday from their agent at Ainsworth:

Ainsworth—Snake river fell one inch; Columbia fell one inch. Weather clear and thermometer 76. I saw some Indians from the mountains, who say that the snow has nearly disappeared. No more high water.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 1[illegible].

Hoar introduced a bill providing that in case of removal, resignation, inability or death of the president and vice president succession to the presidency shall fall on members of the cabinet, beginning with secretary of state and concluding with secretary of the interior, in the same order as named in Washington's cabinet, and excluding the unconfirmed cabinet officers.

Garland said the proposition is [illegible] identical with that which he presented [illegible] last January, and he was glad to know that senator Hoar realized its importance. He suggested reference of this bill to the judiciary committee, in which his own measure was still pending. So ordered.

Hoar introduced a bill for a statue in Washington of Benjamin Franklin.

Senate bill authorizing the Oregon Pacific R. R. Co. to construct bridges across Willamette river, Oregon. Passed.

Bill to reappropriate $30,000 to pay southern mail contractors for services prior to secession of their states was taken up. After discussion the bill went over.

The bank charter extension bill was read for the first time upon committee amendments. The provision inserted by the senate committee to exempt national banks from attachments and injunctions by a state court was objected to by Vest, who said he could see no reason for exemption.

Allison, in charge of the bill explained this existing law gave United States courts sole jurisdiction in relation to these banks. House had inserted the provision giving state courts jurisdiction, as senate committee had merely inserted in this provision the proviso that had existed in the national banking law since its creation.

Sherman said, bringing of suits against banks in state courts was not interfered with, but merely the issue of an arbitrary process against a failing bank for which the national banking law pointed out a different mode of procedure.

Vest replied that the different mode applied only to cases of bankruptcy. The house, in obedience to the popular demand, had adopted the principle that a national bank is not an institution foreign to the state and its people.

Jones, of Louisiana, controverting the statement of Sherman that the purpose of writs of injunction as applied to national banks is merely to marshal or protect the assets, stated that in nine out of ten cases it was used as a means of defense to prevent some illegal or tortious act. He moved to strike out the word "injunctions" from the exemption proposed. Agreed to. Committee amendment was voted down; yeas 24; nays, 27. The affirmative vote was wholly republican. Democrats voted no, and were reinforced by Dawes, Miller of California, and Mitchell. Davis, of Illinois, and Mahone voted yes.

The bill was proceeded with up to the sixth section, providing that all notes of existing banks now in circulation shall be returned, destroyed or cancelled, and new notes bearing different dates and descriptions substituted for them as they come in and are redeemed. This section as passed by the house provided that whenever the old circulation was reduced to five per cent. of the capital stock of banks, the banks should deposit lawful money for that five per cent. amount.

Allison said it was the opinion of the finance committee that a bank intending to evade this proposition could very easily do so by laying aside a portion of its circulation and not taking new circulation for the old. Therefore they were unanimous that the per cent. provision was unwise. All members, however, had agreed to a general proposition of circulation, and they believed some three years would elapse before the great body of these notes would come under ordinary process of redemption, and had inserted a three year period as securing the necessary time.

Beck offered an amendment to require banks, at the end of one year instead of three years, to deposit lawful money for whatever portion of old notes may not be in at that time.

Allison objected that this would necessarily involve large contraction of the volume of paper money. It was possible after authorizing banks to put into the treasury lawful money for their circulation, and having thus caused withdrawal of legal tenders, now part of the circulation, and medium of the government, it would be confronted with a large contraction within the next six or nine months, perhaps to the amount of $70,000,000. Committee had in every amendment made provision for bills to guard against this. Amendment rejected, 23 to 34.

On motion of Voorhees, the secretary of navy was directed to communicate the amounts required for pay of officers of marine corps, and unadjusted claims of naval officers, for mileage, in accordance with certain decisions of supreme court. In several instances detail bills were perfected upon suggestions by Sherman.

Bills were introduced by Miller of Cal., to authorize the Southern Pacific R. R. and other companies to unite and consolidate, so as to form a continuous mail line between the tidal waters of the Atlantic and Pacific, identical with the bill recently introduced by representative Butterworth, in the house.

By Blair, to permit freedmen to enter certain lands in Indian nation. The bill provides that land lying in the Indian territory, owned by the United States and not now occupied by Indians, shall be thrown open to entry and settlement by freedmen of the United States, and provides for allotment of 160 acres of land to the head of each family locating thereon. It also sets aside for school purposes, every sixth section of land granted in the bill, and after a short executive session, senate adjourned till morning.

House.

House went into committee on the river and harbor bill. There was no interest in the proceedings for several hours. Amendments were all voted down. The clause appropriating $350,000 for improvement of the Ohio river caused a long discussion. Page, of California favored the proposition. Agreed to.

Springer, of Illinois, moved to strike out the paragraph appropriating $300,000 for reservoirs at the head waters of the Mississippi river and argued they were works of local and not federal importance.

Pending action committee rose and Blackburn, of Kentucky, from committee on appropriations, reported back the military academy appropriation bill with senate amendments, recommending concurrence in some and non-concurrence in others of these amendments. Report agreed to.

Hiscock, of New York, chairman of committee on appropriations, reported a joint resolution appropriating $23,000 to continue the work of scientific observation and exploration near the shores of Lady Franklin bay, and at Port Barrow, Alaska. Passed. Recess.

House at its evening session passed seven pension bills, including one granting a pension of $10 per month to Betty Taylor Dandridge, daughter of Zachary Taylor. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, June 17.

House went into committee and resumed consideration of the river and harbor bill.
